PREFACE

THIS volume is issued under authority of a series of resolutions passed from time to time by the City Council of Providence, the first of which was approved March 6, 1891, and is as follows:

“RESOLVED, That Horatio Rogers, George M. Carpenter, and Edward Field, are hereby appointed record commissioners, who shall serve without compensation, for the purpose of collecting and printing the early records of the town of Providence. And said commissioners are hereby authorized to expend the sum of one thousand dollars for collecting and printing said records, said sum to be charged to the appropriation for printing.”

On the delivery of the printed copies of this book the commissioners have sent to the City Council their second report, wherein, as in their first report, they give an account of the work so far done and state such further information in general as to the early records as they are able at this time to present. They now proceed, as in the preface to the first volume, to state the nature and manner of the work whose results are here presented.

The volume which is now reproduced in print was commenced after the "First Book Town of Providence" and has at different times been referred to in town documents and elsewhere as the "Second Book of the Town of Providence," the "Town Old Book," the "Short Old Book," the "Old Burnt Book," the "Book with Brass Clasps," and the "Short Old Book which once had Brass Clasps." The original leaves of this book are now separately fastened to or inlaid in sheets of strong paper $9\frac{1}{4}$ by $12\frac{1}{2}$ inches in size, and the whole is substantially bound in dark blue leather, inscribed on the side with the words "Second Book Town of Providence." The pages in their present condition measure $5\frac{3}{4}$ inches wide and $7\frac{1}{2}$ inches long.

Following the preface will be found a table showing the dates of the meetings for town purposes, which are referred to in the book now reproduced in print.

An account of the vicissitudes through which this book and other records passed in early years may be found in Staples' Annals of Providence. Receipted bills, recently discovered in the possession of the city, further show that the town records were removed in the latter part of the year 1776, by Amos Chaffe and John Waterman, Jr., to the house of the latter named, in Johnston, where they were kept "near two years," and were then brought back to Providence, and that for this service the town was charged £9. 6s.

A transcript of this book was made by authority of the town in the year 1800. Though it contained many errors, and no attempt was made to reproduce the spelling of the original, yet it is still of value, as it has enabled the commissioners in many cases to supply defects caused by the fading of the ink and by the burning and abrasion of the edges of the leaves, for the original volume with other town records narrowly escaped destruction when the town was partially destroyed by the Indians in 1676. The transcript has also supplied the contents of a number of leaves that have been lost since it was made. The commissioners, apprehending that the object of the work required of them is the perpetuation in type of the records as they now exist, whereby the material may be preserved and become accessible to many who could not have access to the original, have retained the old orthography and, also, as far as possible, the arrangement of words on the page, especially in the headings of town meeting records, in side-notes, and wherever at the top or bottom of a page, parts of lines have been burned away and the words of the original cannot now be reproduced. Their effort has been to present to the possessor of this volume, as nearly as possible, the same information which he would receive from a perusal of the original record book.

To avoid misapprehension special attention is directed to one of the titles applied to this book, and also to the difference in the arrangement of the pages in the original in its present binding from that followed in this printed reproduction. For many years this book has been called the Book with Brass Clasps, a name which from the only recorded evidence the commissioners have been able to find, originated when the transcript of the earliest books of the town was made in 1800; for at the end of the transcript of this particular book there is written, "Here the Second Old Book End which once had brass clasps."

There appears to be no doubt as to the identification of this book in the two schedules of the records belonging to the town, the first dated August 12, 1678, [see Appendix A, First Report of the Record Commissioners,] and the second dated April 26, 1755, [see Appendix B, First Report of the Record Commissioners,] in each of which schedules the book is designated as the Town Old Book. The book to which the name of Book with Brass Clasps was first applied, it seems clear, was a book later in date than this reproduced volume, and had that name given to it as early as August 12, 1678, [see Appendix A, First Report of the Record Commissioners,] and is now known as the Third Book Town of Providence. At this early period there was no systematic method of recording the various town affairs, and the books that were in use or had already been used were designated by arbitrary names rather than by names indicating the matter which they contained, such as the "Town Old Book," the "Long Old Book with Parchment Cover," and the "Book with Brass Clasps." On January 11, 1708-9, there was executed by Mercy Estance and Joseph Jencks, Assistant, both of the town of Providence, an indenture, now on file in Providence Town

Papers, volume 1, page 20, no. 37, on the back of which is the following indorsement: "The Jndenture on y^e other side of this Paper written, with y^e Endorsemen on the back side was Recorded in Providence Records, in y^e booke Called y^e booke with brass Claspps & in Page 338; Recorded March y^e 4th, 1708-9
 ☿ Tho: Olney, Clerk. /"

On page 338 of the Third Book, Town of Providence, vol. II. [as now arranged,] this instrument is duly recorded, showing beyond doubt the title of the book at that date. The original covers belonging to these two books are now preserved by the city and shed much light on this confusion of names. On one of them, parts of brass clasps remain, while on the other, the marks where clasps have been are at once apparent. From this evidence it is clear to the commissioners that the book which is herewith printed, was not the first book which had the distinctive title "The Book with Brass Clasps," but that the name became connected with it from the fact that it once had brass clasps and that there was a book which once had this particular name.

The arrangement of the leaves of the original book as now bound up, is extremely confusing. The most cursory examination shows that the position of the leaves in their original covers was widely variant from that in their present binding. Indeed, down to this time all efforts of those having occasion to use the original book in its existing condition, to restore the leaves to their proper order, have proved unavailing.

While the commissioners apprehend that their duty is to reproduce the records in type as they find them, so that the reader can gather the same information from the printed volume that he could have gained from the original, yet in this case the confusion is so great and detracts so much from the value of the volume, if it cannot be reduced to order, at least measurably, that they have spared no pains in their attempt to restore the arrangement of the text as they believe it must have originally existed. They feel it incumbent on them to shed all the light in their power on this vexed question, inasmuch as few, if any, readers, will have occasion to devote the painstaking study to the original book as now bound, that the commissioners were required to give to it in preparing it for the press. It will be observed that the book, analytically, is divided into two parts; that is, that it has been used for two different and distinct purposes; first, for recording evidences of land titles and other instruments; and, secondly, for the minutes of meetings for town purposes. One end of the book was probably used for one of these purposes and the other end for the other. As deeds or evidences of land title are not now always presented for record in the order of their dates, and less care was probably exercised at that time in this respect than at the present day, and as no note was made of the time when the deed or other instrument was entered in the book, the order of dates of the deeds or instruments affords no clue to the original and proper order of the pages. The pages, previous to the fortieth, have therefore been printed in the order in which the originals are now bound up, with the exception of a few transpositions deemed to be justified by bringing together sentences obviously connected. In regard to the portion of the book devoted to minutes of meetings for town purposes, it was discovered that much confusion was eliminated by beginning at the end and turning the leaves backward. Hence the derangement of the leaves was in part susceptible of easy explanation. If after the original binding of the manuscript volume had come off, and the back or double edges of the leaves—the edges that in binding are sewed or secured to the covers—had worn apart, so that the book was reduced to a mere mass or pile of separate leaves, the leaves had been rebound together by their front edges, making the beginning of the original book the end of the rebound book, and vice versa, exactly such confusion would be produced as we find in great measure existing in the original Second Book as now rebound. What other confusion exists, not thus to be accounted for, was probably due to occasional leaves having dropped out of the mass of loose leaves before binding, and not having been restored to their proper places. But with the clue afforded as to the proper positions of the greater part of the leaves, it is not difficult to rectify the whole arrangement. Of course, where leaves have been lost there is no way to fill the gaps.

The commissioners, in the printed volume, have arranged the sequence of leaves containing the minutes of meetings for town purposes in accordance with the explanation thus given. The reader, however, who desires to judge for himself of the reasonableness of the arrangement adopted, or who for any other purpose wishes to examine the arrangement of leaves in the manuscript as now bound, has, in order to do so, but to follow the heavy black type paging on the left hand side of the printed pages, which represents the pagination of the manuscript volume; and to enable him the better to do so a table will be found following this preface, showing on what page of the printed volume each side or heavy black type page can be found.

Before leaving this subject it may not be amiss to state that the transcript of 1800 does not follow the order in which the original pages now stand, nor any order in which the pages could possibly have been arranged, for in many cases the transcriber does not give the contents of the page consecutively, from beginning to end, but transposes different parts of the same page, thus rendering even less intelligible a confusion sufficiently great at best. It is apparent, however, from the transcript, that the reversal of leaves alluded to had occurred before the year 1800, and that the transposition of parts of pages was made by the transcriber in a vain effort to lessen the confusion.

The following method has been pursued in making this copy, as in the case of the first volume. In the first place a careful copy of the original was made under the direction of the commissioners. They then personally compared this copy, letter by letter, with the original, and, at the same time, with the transcript of 1800, for the double purpose of assisting in the interpretation of doubtful words and also of supplying letters or words which are wanting or illegible in the original. The copy thus produced being sent to the printer, the commissioners have personally read all the proofs, comparing every letter therein with the original, and also with the copy previously prepared by them, and, in every case, receiving and reading revises until a proof sheet was received in which such vigilance as they were able to exercise could detect no error.

In the performance of this work the commissioners have been much aided by the efficient assistants who took part in the production of the first volume.

An appendix to this volume contains an extract from Staples' Annals of Providence which is thought of sufficient interest and importance to be here inserted in connection with that part of the record to which it is related.

The appendix also contains copies of three pages of the First Book of the Town of Providence which have come to the knowledge of the commissioners since the printed transcript of that book was made. The first of these leaves was perhaps the first leaf, and perhaps what may be called a fly-leaf of the original book. It seems clear to the commissioners that it was once a part of the First Book, more particularly from the consideration that the reference to a town order is in the same form and in the same handwriting with similar references in the pages which at least as early as 1800 were part of the book. The second and third were the last leaves of that book at the time it was transcribed in 1800. The first leaf was evidently separated from the book before 1800, and the second and third were separated between 1800 and the time in 1885 when the leaves of the book were inlaid and rebound, since otherwise they would have been included in the volume by the careful and competent gentleman who had charge of that work.

In pursuing certain investigations having reference to the collection and arrangement of the early papers of the town the commissioners had occasion to examine a volume of manuscripts marked "Rhode Island Manuscripts, Vol. I., 1635-1687," which has for many years been in the possession of the Rhode Island Historical Society; and they found therein the missing leaves which are here printed. They now copy them by permission of that society.

It remains only to explain such signs used in printing as do not carry their own explanation.

The figures at the top of the pages, and enclosed in brackets, indicate the paging of this transcript.

The heavy figures enclosed in brackets represent the paging of the original book as it now stands.

Letters, words and figures in italics, are missing or illegible in the original, and have been supplied from the transcript of 1800.

This mark | shows the beginning and end of interlineations in the original.

Words or letters printed in parentheses are so found in the original, thus “(so calld).”

Brackets enclosing blank space, thus, [] signify that something is missing from, or illegible in the original, and cannot be supplied from the transcript of 1800. The only exception occurs on page 29 of this book, where the brackets of the original are reproduced.

The sign ꝥ is used to represent a contraction or double letter, which, in the original, stands for pr, and is used as the representative of syllables containing those letters with a vowel.

The character ꝥ represents a chirograph which, in the earliest pages of the original, stands for the double letter th. In the later pages the manuscript letter y is used for this purpose, and it is represented in this copy by the type y, as is the usual method in representing this letter.

In very many cases the marks made by illiterate persons to instruments, for their signatures, are reproduced in fac-simile on the records by the recording officer, but in print in this volume these signs are represented by X, being the conventional sign commonly used for that purpose.

With a single exception, words which were written in the original and then erased or stricken out by the pen, are disregarded in this copy. The compact of the “twenty-five acre purchasers," however, on pages 29, 30, and 31, has been printed with all its erasures. A fac-simile of that compact has, likewise, been inserted in this book. By it may be more clearly understood the form of this important instrument, and by it, also, it is possible, to some extent, to understand the difficulties which have been encountered in transcribing and interpreting the chirography of the original. For the plates from which this fac-simile was printed, the commissioners are indebted to Alfred Metcalf, Esq., executor of the will of Henry J. Steere, Esq., late of Providence.

To the Honrd Court of Comissioners Assembled at Ports-Mouth this ̄̄sant May: 1660: this Humble petition from the Towne of providence prayeth Audience

Whereas there is A Law formerly made by the Comission Court of this Colloney, that Every Towne of this Colloney shall pay A Certaine Some, towards the building of A comon prison at New-port, and the sum apoynted for the Towne of providence to pay towards the said prison is 30^{lb} and the same being Earnestly called for by o^r Honrd M^r Benedictus Arnold ̄̄rsedent, the ̄̄rseding year, Wee the Jnhabetantes of the said Towne of providence well weigheing o^r state & Condition, the Estate of most of us being but meane & under so great disburstmentes which of late wee have ̄enn put up on about building A Bridge, the charge ther̄ of amounting to 160: ^{lb} and this usefull not only for o^rselves, but for the whole Countrey And againe seriously considereng that the prison at Newport will be no wayes beneficiall to us at providence, but rather as occations may offer themselves an agruation to o^r disburstmentes, the Towne of Newport being so farr from us that wee cannot with small charge Transport prisoners in the best time of the year, and not without maniffest danger in the winter season, and hapely not at all for many monthes together as is Evident in the Knowledg of all this Colloney by reason that the Rivers will be fast Locked, which said tyme before wee can transport them may prove more chargable to us the Jnhabetantes then the building of A prison Amongst o^rselves, which Eventes were not so well weighed and considered neither by the then Comissioners, who made that Law of 30^b, nor by us the Jnhabetantes of providence as now they are upon all which Considerations before Speseffied wee the said Jnhabetantes doe pray this Honrd Court, that the Law of 30^b imposed on us the Towne of providence, may be caunsselled, and remitted, and not Exacted, promiseing this Honrd Court that such care by us shal be taken to secure o^r owne prisoners untill the time of Trialls, as shall no wayes be chargable to the rest of the Colloney, and A place to put any prisoners of this Colloney, as shall att the time of Trialls be brought amongst us when the Court shall be Kept in o^r Towne; Trusting that yo^r wisdoms will well weigh both o^r reasons and o^r Humble request wee Rest

1. The following extract from Staples' Annals of Providence, page 72, is here printed because of its reference to the copy of the charter of Providence, part of which still remains in the Second Book of the Town of Providence at page 70.

"1649. A special General Assembly was holden at Warwick, in March; there is no record however of their proceedings. In a letter from Mr. Williams to Mr. John Winthrop, he refers to the proceedings of this court. It seems that he was not present, and that the colony elected him Deputy President, Mr. Coddington having sailed for England with his daughter, in January. At the same session the following charter was granted to the town of Providence.

'Whereas, by virtue of a free and absolute charter of civil incorporation, granted to the free inhabitants of this colony of Providence, by the Right Honorable Robert, Earl of Warwick, Governor in chief with the rest of the Honorable Commoners, bearing date the 7th day of March Anno 1643, giving and granting full power and authority unto the said inhabitants to govern themselves and such others as shall come among them, as also to make, constitute and ordain such laws, orders and constitutions, and to inflict such punishments and penalties as is conformable to the laws of England; so near as the nature and constitution of the place will admit, and which may best suit the estate and condition thereof, and whereas the said towns of Providence, Portsmouth, Newport and Warwick are far remote each from other, whereby so often and free intercourse of help, in deciding of differences and trying of causes and the like, cannot easily and at all times be had and procured of that kind is requisite; therefore, upon the petition and humble request of the freemen of the Town of Providence, exhibited unto this present session of the General Assembly, wherein they desire freedom and liberty to incorporate themselves into a body politic, and we, the said Assembly, having duly weighed and seriously considered the premises, and being willing and ready to provide for the ease and liberty of the people, have thought fit, and by the authority aforesaid, and by these presents, do give, grant and confirm unto the free inhabitants of the town of Providence, a free and absolute charter of civil incorporation and government to be known by the Incorporation of Providence Plantation in the Narragansett Bay, in New-England, together with full power and authority to govern and rule themselves, and such others as shall hereafter inhabit within any part of the said Plantation, by such a form of civil government, as by voluntary consent of all, or the greater part of them, shall be found most suitable unto their estate and condition; and, to that end, to make and ordain such civil orders and constitutions, to inflict such punishments upon transgressors, and for execution thereof, and of the common statute laws of the colony agreed unto, and the penalties and so many of them as are not annexed already unto the colony court of trials, so to place and displace officers of justice, as they or the greater part of them shall, by one consent, agree unto. Provided, nevertheless, that the said laws, constitutions and punishments, for the civil government of the said plantation, be conformable to the laws of England, so far as the nature and constitution of the place will admit, yet, always reserving to the aforesaid General Assembly power and authority so to dispose the general government of that plantation as it stands in reference to the rest of the plantations, as they shall conceive, from time to time, most conducing to the general good of the said plantations. And we the said Assembly, do further authorise the aforesaid inhabitants to elect and engage such aforesaid officers upon the first second day of June annually. And, moreover, we authorize the said inhabitants, for the better transacting of their public affairs, to make and use a public seal as the known seal of Providence Plantation, in the Narragansett Bay, in New-England.

In testimony whereof, we the said General Assembly, have hereunto set our hands and seals the 14th of March, anno 1648.

JOHN WARNER, Clerk of the Assembly.'

This charter was intended to strengthen the municipal government of Providence. To have been more useful, it should have prescribed a form of government to be adopted. There is no reference to this charter in the records of the town, neither a petition for it, nor acceptance of it. There is a copy of it in the city clerk's office, engrossed on parchment, which is now almost illegible. A similar charter, bearing date the same day, was granted to Warwick; and, it is presumed Portsmouth and Newport had like charters."

2. The following three pages of the First Book of the Town of Providence appear in the volume of manuscripts in the possession of the Rhode Island Historical Society, entitled "Rhode Island Manuscripts, Vol. I., 1635-1687," at pages 1, 52 and 25 respectively.

The first is the page which the commissioners, from internal evidence, judge to be a part of the First Book, and to have formed probably the first leaf of that book. The writing on this leaf, down to the words, "Whereof ten shillings, &c.," but not including those words, has been retraced by some later and irreverent hand and it is not possible for the commissioners to be sure that the work has been correctly done. They venture to think, however, that the date "1635" was not part of the original writing.

The second and third pages are evidently what remains of those which were part of the book in 1800; and are copied from the transcript made in that year on pages 113 and 114 of Vol. I. of the Early Records of the Town of Providence. The lower part of the third page has evidently been lost since the transcript of 1800 was made.

Words and letters in italics are supplied from the transcript of 1800, as in other parts of this work.
